ABOUT THE AUTHOR

(LONG VERSION)

Bestselling science fiction & fantasy author Raven Oak is best known for Amaskan's Blood, Class-M Exile, and the collection Joy to the Worlds: Mysterious Speculative Fiction for the Holidays. She began her career as many authors do, trying to become the next Anne McCaffrey, Connie Willis, or Neil Gaiman. At the age of twelve, she took her first steps into novel writing by penning a 320 page novel about dragons with all the drama of a typical twelve-year-old.

She studied English literature and music in college, and in 2001, she graduated with a Bachelor of Science from the University of North Texas. She later completed her Master of Science Degree in CECS from UNT in 2005. After twelve years in the classroom as a computer and English teacher, she retired from education to pursue writing full-time.

Raven is currently at work on Amaskan's War and The Eldest Traitor. She is a member of the local Seattle writing group, Ladies of the Write, as well as the Northwest Science Fiction Society, Cascade Writers, and the Pacific Northwest Writers' Association.

Raven is married to a game developer who's also a tabletop geek. When she's not writing, she joins him in gaming, be it tabletop or console. She also enjoys cartography and staring at the ocean.

Raven and her husband are owned by three kitties who enjoy lounging across the keyboard when writing deadlines approach. They live next to a state forest in Kirkland, WA.

MYSTERIOUS SPECULATIVE FICTION FOR THE HOLIDAYS

Seattle, WA, November 10, 2015—Pacific Northwest authors Maia Chance, Janine A. Southard, Raven Oak, and Gayle Clemans will debut a new mystery/speculative fiction collection on December 1, 2015 by Grey Sun Press. Joy to the Worlds: Mysterious Speculative Fiction for the Holidays will be available in both trade paperback (ISBN 978-0-9908157-6-1) and eBook formats (ISBN 978-0-9908157-7-8) at major and independent booksellers with the suggested retail pricing of $9.99 (paperback) and $3.99 (eBook).

All four authors will be touring the Pacific Northwest in December to support the book, with stops at Seattle Mystery Bookshop in Seattle, UW Bookstore in Bellevue, King's Books in Tacoma, and Barnes & Noble in Portland. Tour details are provided on the next page.

What do you get when you mix mystery and speculative fiction, then toss in the holidays for good measure? A mobster Santa, genetic hanky-panky, Victorian villages, time-travelling detectives, Krampus, eerie bell spirits, and more—this collection of short cross-genre fiction is the perfect counterpoint to traditional holiday reading!

Joy to the Worlds brings together eight short works that explore mysteries across time and space. Ranging from dark dystopian worlds to comedic retro-futures, four diverse writers find new ways to combine these disparate worlds.

National bestselling author Maia Chance writes historical mysteries that are rife with absurd predicaments and romantic adventure. She is the author of Snow White Red-Handed (Berkley Prime Crime), Cinderella Six Feet Under, and Come Hell or Highball (Minotaur Books). 2016 titles include Beauty, Beast, and Belladonna and Teetotaled. Janine A. Southard is the IPPY award-winning author of Queen & Commander (and other books in The Hive Queen Saga). Raven Oak is the author of the bestselling fantasy novel Amaskan's Blood, the bestselling science fiction novella Class-M Exile, and the upcoming space opera The Eldest Silence. Gayle Clemans is a founding instructor of Critical & Contextual Studies at Cornish College of the Arts. Clemans regularly contributes art criticism to The Seattle Times, and is the co-author to The Map as Art: Contemporary Artists Explore Cartography.

Publisher's Weekly says "Eight short stories by four authors glisten with holiday wonder, each one decorated in hues of legend, myth, SF, and quirky, joyful fun." San Francisco Book Review gives it 4 out of 5 stars and says, "Drawing from traditional mythology and lore as well as time-travel and science fiction, each author presents a unique perspective on the traditional holiday tale." Geek Syndicate says "[The stories are] clever and evocative of the mystery and thrill of Christmas by turns creepy and sometimes amusing." Fan Girl Nation calls the stories "...brain-bending, strange, and wonderful...perfect for taking your mind off holiday stresses...Grab a copy for yourself, and think about your book-obsessed friends as well."

Description:

Bay-zar. Class-M planet in the middle of no-where. Dust, dust, and more dust. Unless ya circled 'round to the more habitable region, you'd be stuck without a ship to anywhere. 'Round the corner though, you could find everything from ship parts and dried food packs, to roast dog and the rare bi-cycle. Hell, you could even buy yerself a gen-u-ine religion if you were so inclined.

The ultimate tourist trap. And here I'd taken the bait.

When Eerl stepped off The Marzipan, he was one of a billion tourists on Bay-zar. He expected to shop for rare artifacts from war-ravaged Earth and maybe study at the grand library, but not even his background in Human Studies from the University of Tersia could prepare him for what came next:

A military beefcake with a grudge, a wartime conspiracy, a stolen ship, a galaxy full of prejudice, and at the center of it all, a young human named Mel in search of the truth. Her search for her past and his quest for knowledge take them across the stars as they uncover the darkness and fear in us all.

Her name was Adelei. She was a master in her field, one of the feared Order of Amaska. Those who were a danger to the Little Dozen Kingdoms wound up dead by her hand. The Order sends her deep into the Kingdom of Alexander, away from her home in Sadai, and into the hands of the Order's enemy.

The job is nothing short of a suicide mission, one serving no king, no god, and certainly not Justice. With no holy order to protect her, she tumbles dagger-first into the Boahim Senate's political schemes and finds that magic is very much alive and well in the Little Dozen Kingdoms.

While fighting to unravel the betrayal surrounding the royal family of Alexander, she finds her entire past is a lie, right down to those she called family. They say the truth depends on which side of the sword one stands. But they never said what to do when all the swords are pointing at you.

Amidst her enemies, in a land from the darkest reaches of her past, she must decide if she is to be more than another brainwashed puppet. No matter her choice, she must fight to do what is just and right to save the people of the Little Dozen.

“Oak draws on the power of themes found in fairy tales we’ve all grown up with, and weaves them into a powerful tale full of violence, emotion and anguish, whilst delivering a powerful and well held together story....If George R.
